October 31, 2012

Re: USTR-2012-0028 - EU and U.S. call for input on regulatory issues for possible future trade agreement

The Business Roundtable (BRT), the TransAtlantic Business Dialogue (TABD,) and the European Round Table of Industrialists (ERT) are submitting the following comments jointly in response to USTR’s request for comments in the above referenced matter. Our organizations represent chief executive officers and chairmen of leading U.S. and European companies. We are pleased that the U.S. Government and the European Commission (EC) have together agreed to seek public comments and encouraged associations to submit views jointly with their counterparts across the Atlantic, hence this joint submission.

In April, our three organizations issued the attached joint statement in strong support of the new High Level Working Group on Jobs and Growth (HLWG). In Forging a Transatlantic Partnership for the 21st Century, we recommended that the HLWG’s objectives “should be ambitious in eliminating trade, investment and regulatory barriers and distortions in promoting regulatory coherence and should result in commercially relevant new-generation accords” in order to promote economic growth and job creation in the United States and Europe. A June 2005 report issued by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) estimated that economic reforms in both the United States and the European Union (EU) related to the relaxation of regulations, tariffs, and restrictions on foreign direct investment could increase GDP per capita by up to 2.5 percent in the United States and up to 3 percent in Europe.¹ USTR’s request for comments is especially timely and important because regulatory barriers are recognized as the most significant impediment to greater trade and investment between the United States and the EU.

Not relevant

Not relevant

Our joint statement also noted that achieving the core objectives of strengthening and deepening the U.S.-EU economic relationship "will require careful and thoughtful engagement by our governments and the private sector." We want to commend the U.S. Government and the EC for jointly inviting U.S. and European industries to submit their views on how to promote greater transatlantic regulatory compatibility generally as well as asking for concrete ideas on how greater compatibility could be achieved in specific sectors. These collaborative requests are laying the foundation for the strong government-private sector partnership that will be the key to success in the hoped-for U.S.-EU negotiations on trade, investment and regulatory cooperation issues and in the future work of the Transatlantic Economic Council (TEC), the U.S.-EU High Level Regulatory Cooperation Forum (HLRCF), and the U.S.-EU High Level Working Group on Jobs and Growth (HLWG).

As you know, our organizations are general business groups whose members are chief executive officers and chairmen of leading U.S. and European companies representing a wide-range of economic sectors. Since sector-specific associations have the necessary experience and detailed information on what is needed to promote regulatory cooperation in their sectors, we have been encouraging these associations on both sides of the Atlantic to provide detailed sector-specific information to the U.S. Government and the EC, including responding to your request for comments, and to participate in the ongoing work of the TEC, the HLRCF and the HLWG. In particular, we are encouraging U.S. and European sector associations to work together to develop sector-specific recommendations to help shape and guide the hoped-for U.S.-EU negotiations on trade, investment and regulatory cooperation issues.

Regulatory and standards issues can by their nature often be more complicated than traditional trade and investment issues. They are often technically complicated as well as legally and politically complex because they involve public health, safety, welfare, and environmental protection issues. We are, therefore, committed to working with the U.S. Government and the EC to develop a negotiating framework and process for horizontal and sectoral regulatory issues which will be able to address effectively these unique issues and produce outcomes which will promote U.S.-EU regulatory cooperation.

Not relevant
In addition, the hoped-for negotiations on trade, investment and regulatory cooperation issues should recognize that there are sound principles that can be applied to developing smart regulation that are common to all sectors to ensure that regulations are cost-effective, grounded in the most advanced scientific knowledge available, and are the most efficient and effective means to achieve objectives. Regulatory processes, including government review and management of agency rulemaking, should be open to public scrutiny, regulations should be reviewed regularly for the purposes of determining whether they should be reformed or discontinued, and paperwork burdens should be considered and reduced where possible.
final report due later this year that the U.S. and EU launch ambitious and comprehensive trade, investment, and regulatory cooperation negotiations next year.

Sincerely,

Governor Engler  Kathryn Hauser  Brian Ager
President       U.S. Executive Director    Secretary General
Business Roundtable  TABD       ERT