Dear [REDACTED]

Please find attached some Nordic proposals for the EU regulation on organic poultry. We have a long history of organic poultry production in Scandinavia and organic eggs make up a significant share of the retail market. In Denmark, more than 32 % of all eggs sold in retail in 2017 were organic and the market is increasing.

For more than 10 years the Danish organic egg production has been based on organic pullet production, with pullets raised with access to outdoor areas. We believe this is positive for the animal welfare during the entire life cycle of the birds, and one of the reasons why our additional welfare control and our production statistics have improved yearly over the past decade.

We are truly proud of our organic production and its development and would be happy to host you for a visit, or to supply you with any additional information required.

On behalf of organic poultry production in Sweden, Finland and Denmark
