Liebe [REDACTED],

Unten ein paar bullets - auf Englisch, ich hoffe, Du kannst Sie wenn nötig schnell ins Deutsche übertragen.

Viel Erfolg

- The 4th PCI list includes key infrastructure projects to support the increasing share of renewables, address the remaining energy security challenges and underpin the modernisation of an integrated infrastructure that delivers clean, secure and affordable energy to all Europeans.
- The Commission has put the focus on electricity projects that are needed for the integration of a growing share of renewables and to enable the transformation of our electricity system. In particular the 4th PCI list contains a number of new projects of direct and high importance for the clean energy transition (North Sea Wind Power Hub and other interconnections tapping into the offshore wind potential in the North Seas, three hydro-pump electricity storages in Germany, Spain and Ireland supporting the integration of renewables; three new electricity smart grid projects and two new CO2 network projects).
- The Commission has worked proactively to reduce the number of gas projects in each subsequent list. The 32 gas projects included on the 4th list relate to infrastructure necessary to ensure security of supply and to diversify gas supply sources. The reduction also avoids stranded assets. It is unlikely that there will be a need to add new natural gas projects to the PCI list in the future.
- Rejection of the 4th PCI list would result in the 3rd list remaining in force - with the consequence that a number of projects of high importance to the clean energy transition couldn't benefit from the benefits of the TEN-E framework, such as faster permitting and eligibility for financial assistance.
- The 4th PCI list has been established as the result of an inclusive and transparent process, with full involvement of network operators, other project promoters, Member States, regulators, civil society and the European Parliament.

Lieber [REDACTED],
Mein MEP wird gleich interviewt bzgl warum das EP nächste Woche für die
PCI Liste stimmen sollte.
Kannst du mir 5 bullets zumailen?
Vielen Dank!!
