Dear [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

I refer my message and meeting request on behalf of [REDACTED] Arcelor Mittal, [REDACTED] to discuss outlook and views on enabling policy framework for hydrogen.

I wonder if you would be willing to discuss the recent report we have undertaken with [REDACTED] [REDACTED] in order to positively contribute to the EU debate on hydrogen.

It is my understanding that all companies will be key contributors to the Hydrogen IPCEI and other key transformative projects the EU will undertake to achieve set goals.

Kindly let me know if you would be available for such a meeting and when. I proposed some dates below, but we are willing to adjust our schedules to make this possible meeting.

best regards,

Subject: Joint meeting request - new study results on hydrogen

Dear [REDACTED] and [REDACTED],

I am approaching you on behalf of a coalition of [REDACTED] leading European energy producers and industrial energy consumers to request for a meeting about hydrogen-related policies. ArcelorMittal, [REDACTED] are all committed to EU's 2050 climate-neutrality objective and taking significant steps in bringing up the EU decarbonisation ambition into concrete hydrogen use-cases.

Together, we have commissioned a study from [REDACTED] to contribute to the European discussion on how to create an enabling policy framework for hydrogen. We believe that this discussion should be guided by the aim of meeting Europe's needed volumes of hydrogen to decarbonise hard-to-abate sectors in a timely manner. The study will be published very soon.

The study analysed three technological scenarios/pathways for hydrogen production as well as a set of policy measures supporting hydrogen supply and demand. One of the key modelling results is that all available sources of renewable and decarbonised electricity are needed to ramp up hydrogen production by electrolysis to meet the demand in a timely and cost-efficient way. The study also finds that given the current cost competitiveness gap, policy measures will have an extremely important role in driving hydrogen EU industrial development in the next decade.

Representatives of these [redacted] companies would like to discuss with you the findings of the report and the stemming policy implications. We hope to bring new ideas and data to support the on-going legislative preparation work on hydrogen and discuss your views on the topic. Would you be available for a Teams meeting on some of the following time slots?

- Monday 17 May between 16h-17h CET
- Tuesday 18 May between 11h and 12h CET
- Tuesday 18 May between 14h and 17h at a time most convenient to you
- If these are not convenient, we are happy to search for alternative dates.

I look forward to your response and a discussion about this important topic.

Best regards,
