ITEMS DEBATEDTURKEY*The Council held a debate on Turkey.

There was consensus among member states that EU-Turkey relations were currently under strain because of worrying developments affecting the EU's interests, in particular in the Eastern Mediterranean and Libya. Ministers agreed that several serious issues had to be addressed by Turkey in order to change the current confrontational dynamic, and create an environment of trust.

In line with the Council Conclusions on illegal Turkish drilling activities in the Exclusive Economic Zone of Cyprus of 15 July 2019 and the statement on the Eastern Mediterranean of 15 May 2020, it was stressed that Turkey's unilateral actions – in particular in the Eastern Mediterranean, which run counter to EU interests, to the sovereign rights of EU member states and to international law – must come to an end.

Ministers also called on Turkey to contribute actively to a political solution in Libya and to respect the commitments it had made within the framework of the Berlin process, including the UN arms embargo. Member states underlined the importance of Operation IRINI to ensure respect for the arms embargo by all actors and undertook to consider how to ensure its full effectiveness, with the aim of preventing any escalation on the ground.

Ministers also condemned Turkey's decision to convert Hagia Sophia back into a mosque as this decision will inevitably fuel mistrust, promote renewed divisions between religious communities and undermine efforts to engage in dialogue and cooperation. There was broad support for appealing to the Turkish authorities to urgently reconsider and reverse their decision.

Finally, there was broad support for tasking the High Representative with exploring further paths that could contribute to lowering tensions and reach an understanding on issues which are placing the EU-Turkey relationship under increasing strain.

Latin America and the Caribbean (COVID-19)

The Council discussed relations between the EU and Latin America and the Caribbean in the light of the consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Ministers discussed in particular how the EU can support the region with a view to revitalising the EU's political engagement with it at this critical moment.

Current affairs

Ministers discussed the entry into force of the national security legislation in Hong Kong. In this context, ministers reiterated the EU's support for the autonomy and fundamental freedoms of the people of Hong Kong, and stressed that such a decision may have an impact on the EU's relations with China.

The Foreign Affairs Council was then informed about Libya, where the situation on the ground remains bad, and blatant violations of the arms embargo continue to be recorded.

Ministers were also briefed about developments in the Belgrade Pristina Dialogue, which had been recently resumed, and its next meeting scheduled for Thursday 16 July in Brussels.

Finally, the High Representative also touched on the subject of Venezuela, for which he had proposed to convene a ministerial meeting of the International Contact Group, followed by meetings with the Lima Group and other key actors.
