Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you very much for having taken the time recently to discuss with Bolt the topic of platform work.

Please find attached Bolt's position paper on platform work which aims at underlining that while platform workers' conditions should with no doubt always be improved, a "rebuttable presumption of employment" would have a highly negative impact for the platform workers, the platforms and the European customers.

This can already be evidenced in the reform which took place in Spain and which has been greatly criticized by delivery couriers' representatives in the attached letter to Commissioner Schmit.

I remain of course fully available for any other question you may have.

Best regards,
