Summary:

Enhancement the capacity of the Indonesian administration of justice sector for the prosecution of human rights violations.

Contribute to the National and International efforts to support the democracy process in Haiti, by reinforcing the civil society, monitoring of the human and political rights, and civil education.

Educate marginalized people on civil law, and in particular on labour, pension and consumer law. The project’s activities consist of a training program which will introduce civil rights principles and will target unemployed, pensioners, single mothers, disabled people, prisoners and rural people.

Increase civic participation in decision making processes regarding important and real issues on the local level because the interest of citizens in changing social-economic issues is the main condition for improving life in a rural community. The lessons learnt and good practices will be shared through a network linking rural areas in northern and southern Kazakhstan.
