Subject: The Commissioner to speak at Europe's leading technology event

Hi,

I'm an editorial director at Web Summit. At over 40,000 attendees including 1200 journalists, we are Europe's fastest growing event and leading meeting point for public figures, media and the world's most influential multi-national companies in tech and other industries.

We'd love to invite the Commissioner to speak in Lisbon this year, heralding the conversations around Climate Action from a business perspective.

Our speakers this year include Amnesty International [REDACTED] and France's [REDACTED]. We'd love to get the Commissioner on board to lead the discussion on Climate Action. Bearing in mind that over 2000 of the most promising start-ups will be in the audience, his message will go a long way in shaping their practices. The CEO of Renault, the global Chief Technology Officer of Facebook and the Chairman of Cisco are also speaking at Web Summit.

Let me know if we can take this forward,

Best,

[REDACTED]
