Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you very much for your email confirming the receipt of the requested documents. We fully agree with your suggestion to proceed with the process of signing the contract. I have spoken to our subcontractor Survey Sampling, they will provide a notarised solemn statement soon to make sure there is no unnecessary delay in signing the contract.

Look forward to your response.

Best regards,
Robert

Dear Mr Haffner, I am writing to inform you that I have received the documentary evidence (attached). However I noticed that the subcontractor Survey Sampling Europe made just a self statement and provided a letter (copy) from a civil law notary . I also read that the necessary documents have been requested by the competent authorities, but it will take a few weeks before the original documents are received.

In the circumstances and in consideration of the fact that Survey Sampling Europe is a subcontractor for this contract, and Ecorys remains liable vis à vis of the Commission for the performance of the contract, I am willing to suggest to my hierarchy the sending of the unsigned version of the contract with the understanding that your subcontractor will provide – before counter signature of the contract from the Commission- either:

- the requested documentation or
- a solemn statement made by Survey Sampling Europe before a judicial or administrative authority or notary in respect of the situations described under the exclusion criteria, as reading in Annex 3 of the call for tender MARKT/2013/110/B.

Many thanks for your co-operation.

I have learned this morning from one of your colleague who called me with regard to the exclusion criteria that the person who will be signing the contract is no longer Mr Taselaar. Could you please confirm us by email the name of the new appointed person (and his/her job position) who will be signing the contracts on behalf of Ecorys? We shall prepare the contract accordingly.

As agreed with your colleague, I expect to receive by post the official notification about this new appointment at Ecorys NV together with the documentary evidence of Annex 3 of the tender specifications.
