Dear Anne Line,

As you say, we could revise this abstract (and every other text) forever. I tried to read it with a very critical eye. In any case, please, accept or refuse what you consider best and I will submitted immediately after.

The word counting is currently below 350. This value is within the range suggested by ISSDP (between 200 and 400 words for abstracts), being therefore fine. It could be shorter, but I think it is acceptable. I tried to cut when I saw it was easy.

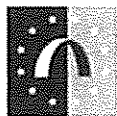

Thanks for your help.

Concerning the a-mail sent to everyone, I think it is great. I was felling a bit uncomfortable because I do not know how do we plan to tackle the authorship issue. Will this paper have authors or it will be under 'Pompidou/EMCDDA' only? I do not know what is the rule. I do not even know what is the rule for EMCDDA papers but I think the rule is no rule. What are your preferences? Do you know what are Thomas' preferences?

By the way, I think you have not included Sanja, from Croatia, in your e-mail. She will be back to the national Focal Point in October 2017. This a great new to me and in case, if this project continues, to the project because she's a hard worker and a really nice person to work with. Do you have her new e-mail address? In case you don't tell me. It is her name split with a dot and then @MSPM.HR

Best! :-)

Dear Claudia,

I have read the abstract and accepted most of your suggestions. I think it now reads quite well, don't you? I have shortened it a little, like for instance just stating that "supply reduction is an approach to reduce drug availability" is not worth mentioning, I think - but I accept your point that saying that it is "the most common approach" may lead to discussions. Still, I find this a bit hard to understand, given that the data we present clearly show that it is the case...

I don't know either how to handle the authorship question; who should be included? Let's discuss it with Thomas soon. Thanks for pointing out that I missed Sanja with my e-mail, that was not intended. By the way, I noted that you sent the abstract to Peyman Altan and not to the Russian guy. You haven't included Peyman as a co-author of the abstract, which is fine with me - I don't think Peyman, who only attended one or two meetings should be an author. But perhaps Sergey should?

We'll be in touch soon,
Anne Line

Dear Anne Line

First of all, congratulations to you, Thomas and the few expert group members, Claudia?, who edited the revised version of Chapter 2.

Last time I read it, it came to it that it still looked very much as an assembly of various contributions! Not anymore! The text is coherent, ideas flow easily, the subject is solid without being boring.

It's a privilege to be part of this expert group.

I have just a few English language editing suggestions, and a suggestion on the Portugal paragraph.

A happy new year to you and all!

Assunto: Joint report with the EMCDDA

Dear all,

Happy new year! I hope 2017 have started well for all of you!

First, a short update: For various reasons the progress of our report is much delayed and we could not publish it as planned last autumn. That is very unfortunate. We are slowly moving in the right direction, however, and after some hard work by a few expert group members and Thomas, there are now drafts of Chapter 1, 2 and, soon, also of Chapter 3. Chapter 4 will be finalized when drafts of the first three are completed. I will send you the reports for comments when manuscripts all four chapters are ready.

As you remember, to increase visibility, we aimed for a joint report with the EMCDDA on the topic of public expenditure. This joint report, which is a revised version of Chapter 2, is about to be submitted to the EMCDDA. Please find the draft enclosed. The manuscript is currently under English language editing. If you have any comments to the text, I will need your feedback within this week (Friday 20 January).

Thanks for your response to the abstract Claudia sent you yesterday. She will present a paper based on Chapter 2 at the ISSDP conference in May. This to further increase the visibility of our work. Thanks Claudia!

Kind regards,
Anne Line

Will you student have finished her work by next Friday? January has almost passed by then. I mentioned this task for Thomas some time ago and he agreed that the Pompidou group could pay her the 500 euros. With her contribution in place, all bits will be ready, and hopefully, the EMCDDA will accept the manuscript without too many suggestions for changesJ

Have a great weekend!

Dear Thomas and Anne Line,

I annex the file with most suggestions accepted.

I have however very few suggestions which I keep either as side comments or as text in track changes, to facilitate the analysis of the document.

When you give the green light I will send this document to Paul Griffith. In the meanwhile, I have asked comments to my supply reduction colleagues.

I look forward to meeting you tomorrow, Thomas

Dear Claudia and Thomas,

I have read the document carefully and think it reads well! The English editing seems very good and I agree with most of Claudia's suggestions. There are one or two exceptions, however, where I have introduced an alternative, please see the file attached. I have also raised a few questions but these are only of minor importance. I would be grateful if you could have a quick look at what I suggest and let me know what you think - the document is very soon ready for Paul to readJ

Dear Claudia,

Please find attached the foreword as reviewed by Jan Malinowski. I kindly ask you to send it onward to Alexis for review as we had agreed. He is awaiting it. Please note that once Alexis has reviewed and approved it, the foreword will still have to undergo a language editing check. The same goes also that also any passages of the text of the last version that had been linguistically edited must undergo checking again. I therefore kindly ask you and Anne Line to mark any passages that you have changed and then send me the complete text (with the foreword and the tables prepared by the student).

Thanks Thomas,

However, don't you think that it is better to send Alexis the complete publication? Sending him the forward without the text that follows is a bit strange, no? I am not certain that he is going to appreciate it. I feel like it is asking him to sign a blank check ...

In any case, the student will give me her completed job, tomorrow. So, I will make a concrete proposal for including a few new paragraphs in the main text and an annex (with little text and a few tables, describing the existing international datasets). As we discussed, most of these tables shall be made available in our website, only. They are not to be included in the paper version publication. Nevertheless, they will have to be edited and worked out in order to put them in the right EMCDDA/Pompidou Group publishing requirements.

So, do you agree to wait for the full publication before sending to Alexis?

I look forward to seeing our final last product/baby :-)

Dear Claudia,
Please find attached the foreword as reviewed by Jan Malinowski. I kindly ask you to send it onward to Alexis for review as we had agreed. He is awaiting it. Please note that once Alexis has reviewed and approved it, the foreword will still have to undergo a language editing check. The same goes also that also any passages of the text of the last version that had been linguistically edited must undergo checking again. I therefore kindly ask you and Anne Line to mark any passages that you have changed and then send me the complete text (with the foreword and the tables prepared by the student).
Thanks in advance and best regards,
Thomas

Dear Thomas and Anne Line,

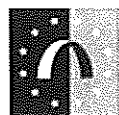

My suggestion to the Forward is attached. Too long?

EMCDDA needs to be relatively neutral when we analyse the balance between supply and demand. This is one reason for being credible and strong, because member states are represented in our Management Board do not let us do different, in any case. I tried to reflect this in the forward. I have used material from the abstract presented to the ISSDP conference, to benefit from our previous work.

I will start now reading the main text.

I look forward to receiving your comments.

Dear Anne Line and Thomas,

Marta has done an impressive job. She has summarized the information and data available in international databases, which can be useful to estimate public expenditure on supply reduction (Annex 3).

I attach a summary database, which can be added to our publication as Annex 3 - she is currently completing the different existing lists of countries, which should be added as footnotes at the end of the annex.

The full document, which is going to be available at EMCCDA and Pompidou websites, has about 70 pages, with definitions of the reported data - according to the reporting international institution; national definitions - when they differ; and 32 tables. Each table has the type of data available described, reporting countries and the time period when data are available (by country). The number of observations available for each variable is also reported. Marta is still adjusting the format of tables to make them smaller and easier to read.

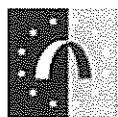

In any case, I would like to ask for your comments before proceeding.

I send you:

- 1) Annex 3;
- 2) The main text with changes to mention the annex 3 (I am a bit tired and not too inspired, I confess) . In case you have suggestions, please, help me.
- 3) the detailed description of databases.

Thanks for your comments and suggestions

Dear Claudia,

I have read the new version of the joint report and I think your new paragraphs read fine. As always, I have a few suggestions and comments but in general it looks good. Please see the attached files.

I am really impressed by the work of the student – she has done a great job!! I didn't read every single table in detail but what I saw was really good. This should be of great help to anyone wanting to estimate public expenditureJ

Thomas has a point when saying the new text should be English edited. Please arrange that with him.

Congratulations – we are now very close! Send the text to Paul whenever you feel like it. If you cc me and Thomas when you do so, Paul will hopefully feel that he has to respond quickly.

Cheers,
Anne Line

Looked at the suggestions and it's all 'green light' from my side.

As far as the appendices are concerned: very impressive indeed! But as the innocent/ignorant reader I don't understand what is meant by 'available observations'

And what these figures are meant to tell me. Sorry, maybe it's only me and I missed out on something. But I think there should be clarity, it would be a shame if all this great work done on the table is not properly understood.

What's your take on this?

Best,

Dear Thomas,

I have changed to footnote of Annex 3.

The number of observations reports the number of data records existing, taking into account the territory; countries and years available. The ratio compares the number of effectively reported observations with the total number of records, if no data were missing. Example: Europe (44) = 28/368: in Table 4, the conviction statistics of the European Sourcebook of crime and criminal justice statistics reports 28 data records, for the community sanctions imposed to drug offences in 2010, compared to the 368 data records that would exist if no data were missing, in the region Europe (with 44 countries).

Is it clearer, now?

If yes, if you understood, could you clarify the concept in the body of text, please?
Otherwise, I think it is better we speak by phone and arrive to an agreement .

Concerning Paul Griffiths, I think that it could be better to finalize and prepare the paper for publication, before giving it to him or other colleague he tells us in EMCDDA. They would like to see the last possible version, ready to go to the printer. PG has so little time that it would be good if receives the latest possible version only. Otherwise we may miss 'the' opportunity...

In any case, I have already sent to my colleagues from the supply reduction sector/Unit who have actually made the suggestions which I incorporated now. So, at least, we have advanced a bit inside EMCDDA.

What do you think?

Kind regards

Cláudia

Dear Claudia,

I think this looks really good! A few remarks, as always, but nothing serious. It will be a good addition to the original text and the online version should be very useful for those who are thinking of conducting a study on their own.

Almost there...There are not that many new text bits so I assume the English editing will go quickly. So hopefully, the manuscript will be in Paul's hands very soon. Do you have any feeling of what Paul will say about the report or the joint action with the Pompidou Group? I will attend the risk assessment meeting in two weeks time. Is it too much to hope for that things are settled (i.e. accepted by Paul) by then?

Best,
Anne Line

Dear Claudia,

Please find attached the final draft in the pre-layout version. I checked and it will be difficult to make major changes in the text when the version has been layouted. Would you think it possible that you send the attached final draft to Paul etc. for review before the layout is done? We would then send the layout version for approval to you once we have received any last changes that might come from your side. But if you think it's better to send the version in layout to Paul etc. then will do so. Please let me know how we shall proceed.

Thanks and have a good day!
Thomas

Dear Thomas,

This report has received EMCDDA internal approval for being produced. No suggestions were provided for changes.

I kindly request you to send me the proofs after lay out, when possible. EMCDDA's communication department needs to ensure that every publication is coherent with our corporate identity.

I kindly ask you to consider the 'rules' and 'standards' that I previously sent you. In case you do need more guidance, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Do you know when it would be likely that this proof will be ready?

We thank you in advance.

Kind regards,

Cláudia

Dear fellow members of the expert group,

Please find enclosed a (almost!) full draft of our report. It has taken a long time to accomplish it and some of you have been more involved with the work than others. Irrespective of previous contributions, however, it is now uttermost important that all of you devote the required time and read carefully through the document. Please use the "track changes" mode to mark any suggestions or additions to the text. As we are already much delayed, I need your response back by 21 April, two weeks from now.

Please note that the reference style currently differs throughout the document and that the numbering of the PI's is not coherent in the first and second part of Chapter 3. These things, and the English editing, will be taken care of after I have received your feedback. Please also note that Chapter 4 is not included in the present document – I will send it to you by Wednesday.

Best regards,
Anne Line

Dear all,

A full draft of our report is now finally completed!! Please find enclosed the first draft of Chapter 4. I made it rather brief (4 pages) but hope it contains what we want to highlight and focus on. Please read carefully! And similar to the other chapters; if you have any suggestions or comments, use the "track changes" mode and write your alternatives directly into the text. In order to get report ready for the permanent correspondents' meeting in May, I need your response by 21. April. The sooner the better, of course!

For completeness, I also enclose Chapter 1-3.

Happy Easter!

Dear Claudia,

I hope you enjoyed the Easter break! I did but I'm now back in businessJ

I am slowly working my way through the draft and have very carefully read (and frequently changed according to your suggestions) Chapter 1 and 2. Hopefully, there are now less repetitions...I have however some questions to chapter 2. I know we have discussed some of them previously but I still have problems in understanding parts of the text. Could you please take a look and respond to my remarks/questions in the attached version of Chapter 2? I would be most grateful! If it is easier for you, we could talk on the phone.

I also would like to ask about the supply reduction term again. Peter Reuter states in one of his papers the difference between law enforcement of control policy and supply reduction initiatives and claim that the latter is only one part of law enforcement. I know the EMCDDA uses "demand and supply reduction" terminology but could you have a look to see if much would go wrong if we used drug control policy instead of supply reduction policy? For instance under 2.2 where we define the concepts; I suggest we swop "public expenditure on supply reduction initiatives" by "public expenditure on drug control initiatives". It would then be clear that we include public expenditure on law enforcement towards drug use and possession too (as many of the studies we cite do in their estimations). Would that be ok with you?

Sorry for bringing these topics up again but I feel that we are not fully consistent..

Looking forward to hearing from you,
Anne Line

Dear Anne Line

Since tomorrow and after tomorrow I will not be at the office, I send you my comments, except for Chapter 4. They are on pages 3, 8 and 58.

Overall, on chapter 3, I sometimes feel that subjects that have already been referred are done so again and again, like NSP, for example, without much added value.

Chapter 2 seems to be more robust in the sense of coherency, maybe because it was ready earlier and there was more time to go through it.

What I mean, is that it seems to me that there is some redundancy in Chapter 3, but I don't know how to solve that.

I will send you my comments on Chapter 4 until the 21st

Warm regards to all!

Dear Yossi and Anne Line

I agree with you both!

It would be an added value to include something on medical and recreational cannabis/marijuana, but it has not been discussed in our meetings, I think, and we must put an end to the report.

Perfection is a goal, not a destination!

Perhaps a small paragraph could be included on chapter 4 pointing to that social research and proposing further discussions on that, as another (complimentary) field of work and the start of a new group to be set by the PC's for the next 3 years PG program!

Right now Chapter 3 seems confusing not only because of how it evolved, no judgement on that, but above all because it's such an innovative approach and line of research and the number of contributions.

In the past, PG has engaged an editor for reports to be published and the editing made a wonderful job. That's just a suggestion, Thomas might look for such examples.

I agree that someone that has been so engaged in writing and rewriting the report has no longer the distance to introduce changes, because improving the final product is what Anne Line has been doing.

And let's not forget that Chapter 3 is the outcome of more members of this Group than Chapter 2, and that the experts that worked on Public Expenditures have worked together in other occasions and there was already much common work and knowledge of each other's lines of work and research.

Having said that, the report is very good, and the credits go of course first to Anne Line and then to all the members of the Group.

Have a wonderful Spring weekend! I think that by now all our countries are fully immersed by it!

Two things:

- I am happy to consider new text bits if you think important parts are missing, so feel free, Yossi and others, to write (small) paragraphs and send me. I agree that more could have been written on recent policy changes and on medical cannabis, but I simply don't have the time. Please send me your suggestions by Wednesday 26. April and indicate where in the document you think they might could fit.
- Having spent so much time on the text it has made me somewhat "blind" for repetitions. If you haven't already done so, please indicate clearly in the text where we repeat ourselves and how we can address that.

I am sure you understand that not all your suggestions may be reflected in the final document but I'll do my best to improve the report as much as possible.

Dear Anne Line, dear team members,

First of all let me join Fatima and Fivos in congratulating you, Anne Line, on a great job. I think this document is a great improvement both in content and in clarity, and seeing all the chapters together makes a nice flow of coherency. I agree with Fatima that Chapter 4 provides a great comprehensive summary that reflects on the document as a whole.

Continuing Fatima and Fivos comments, chapter 3 has been the main focus of this report and of our repeated discussions, and it went through several revisions. I think it has improved significantly and Anne Line and others did a great job with it. However, I feel it is still somewhat confusing. The tables related to health effects include some social consequences that should appear in the later "non-health effects" tables, resulting in some repetitions or incoherency.

I spent most of my time focusing on chapter 3 and suggesting some changes. Including some suggested moves between tables. However, since we are so far in the process and time is crucial, please relate to my comments and suggestions as optional.

The only issue that I feel that we might be missing in the report is a significant discussion related to the unintended consequences of recent policy changes and challenges regarding the legal status of medical and recreational use of cannabis. This is one of the main drug issues that policy makers in Europe have to deal with currently. I wonder what you all think about this.

Finally, I most join Fivos in expressing my thanks for the opportunity to work with this great team, learn a lot and contribute to this project. I also hope that we have the opportunity to continue our collaboration in the near future.

Dear Thomas and Anne Line,

It was a great pleasure meeting you in Oslo. Following our discussions after our meeting regarding the literature review I have attached a preliminary strategy plan. As we have agreed, the literature will be dichotomized into two main areas : the advocacy / policy review and the empirical studies. Of course there are going to be fluctuations and overlapping, but for a matter of clarity and organization I think it will be helpful to disentangle these two areas as distinct.

Therefore, the focus of my research at this point, taking into consideration the time frame, is to finalize the strategy plan, seek approval from the group, review the literature on the policy/advocacy area (key words such as prohibition, drug control measures, war on drugs etc.); and research available databases that provide information about identified harms (unintended consequences) of the current repressive drug control regime. These may include incarceration rates from crimes related to drugs (possession; trafficking); pre-detention rates due to minor drug related offences; quality of life of drug user in prison (treatment availability; conditions; etc); recidivism and relapse rates following prison release, etc. These databases may include governmental reports; correctional facility reports; EUROSTAT; EC reports: European Sourcebook of Crime and Criminal Justice Statistics and other European and International reports.

As you may see in the attached draft strategy I took the initiative and went one step further, by suggesting at least at this preliminary stage the phases, extraction procedures etc. Of course these issues are going to be discussed and hopefully agreed by the group, but for now i believe it's good to have some kind of guideline showing where we are going and how to get there.

Please have a look and I hope you can take some time to give me your opinion. Shall I wait some kind of written agreement, and do you need any additional information from me? Please let me know.

Once again it was a great pleasure meeting you and I hope for a constructive and fruitful collaboration.

Kind regards,

Dear Fivos,

Thank you so much for your literature review strategy – a really professional and comprehensive draft! I see that the suggested strategy is in line with how a formal literature review should be done. My worry is that this is too ambiguous given the time frame and the role the review is meant to have in our report. As I see it, the aim of the review is to give us an overview of the state of art that can serve as a useful starting point for the report itself. It would have been very good with a more comprehensive review but I don't think that is feasible right now, nor a task for the expert group. Pavel Bém mentioned that the group behind The Global Drug Report already have conducted a review along the lines we have in mind, so hopefully, this could be a "flying start" for our review. Have you been in contact with him after the Oslo meeting? He said he would be happy to pass on their review.

Cláudia Storti suggested that some of the four weeks we agreed on should be spent on searching databases like the EuroStat one to get information on what data that actually exist that could be relevant for us. I think she's right. It will be most useful to get a better knowledge of what kind of databases and variables that are there to analyze and compare public expenditure etc. How to split the four weeks on these two very different tasks I don't know but perhaps you and Cláudia could discuss it? I cc her in this email.

I hope my response will not discourage you. Your work will really be helpful for writing the report and for getting a better understanding of what existing data sources can contribute to our end. Don't hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

With regard to the four weeks contract, I suppose Thomas will be in touch. I cc him here too.

Cheers,
Anne Line

Under reference documents, we will put the meeting documents, background literature.

Under working documents, you will be able to put the documents you will be working on. So they will be for editing, adding comments, etc.

If you would like to use the chat, it will be on the Discussion Board.

focused in the field that EMCDDA has expertise, i.e., on public expenditure on control policies only. Otherwise, it would request too much investment from our part.

However, before taking a final commitment, EMCDDA would like to clarify also some aspects:

1) What specific tasks do you expect EMCDDA to be in charge in this joint publication? EMCDDA has been contributing with comments for supporting its writing, which is fine. However, EMCDDA does not expect to take the initiative to write any additional section(s)/chapters; NO need to write further chapters!

2) EMCDDA needs to review the final version of the document and certify that they respect the editorial standards of EMCDDA's publications before publishing the document; Fully OK with us.

3) Who is going to bear the costs of this publication? This we can negotiate – we have a budget for this!

4) What is the format of the publication that you plan and when do you plan to have a copy ready for being published? This we can negotiate based on what EMCDDA finds appropriate. We are highly flexible in this matter.

I am sorry that I am so detailed in my questions but that is what my hierarchy will ask me when I will make a formal request to the Editorial Board of the EMCDDA. Every project that is going to be publish needs to pass by their approval and needs to be included in EMCDDA work plan.

I thank you in advance and I look forward to reinforcing our cooperation

Dear Thomas,

EMCDDA has been reflecting about the Pompidou Group proposal you made, during the Pompidou/EMCDDA meeting of the 8-9/March.

In principle, as you saw, EMCDDA assesses positively your idea. However, EMCDDA would like to change a bit the scope of your proposal and clarify details.

The work of the Pompidou's expert group on Effects and associated costs of drug control policies has been split into 2 main blocks. One focusing on the public expenditure on drug control interventions and the other on the unintended consequences of these drug control initiatives.

Since the beginning of this project, EMCDDA has been mostly involved in the first component because this topic is higher in EMCDDA's priorities set in the work programme and, consequently, this topic is where EMCDDA has invested more resources.

Consequently, and since EMCDDA resources are rather scarce, EMCDDA proposal goes very much in this direction. EMCDDA would think that a joint publication is only advisable if

Sorry for my somewhat slow response. [REDACTED]

Thomas came back to me and said they would take care of the editing of chapter 2! That was really a relief! I don't know who will actually do the job but I'm sure it will of some help. Perhaps he still wants you to write something about cost-benefit/social cost studies? Please keep me posted.

I received the announcement for the drug market report also through the Sc.C but not the report – thank you again for that!

How are you? How is work? Have you start the planning of your trip to Australia? I really would have loved to go in May!

2016 EU Drug Markets Report from the EMCDDA and Europol

Upcoming strategic analysis of the European drug market

(1.3.2016, LISBON) Illicit drugs are big business. They are one of the main profit-generating activities of organised crime and are estimated to represent around one-fifth of global crime proceeds. The negative impacts of illicit drug markets are multifaceted and far-reaching, which is why they remain a key threat to the security of the European Union and the safety of its citizens.

Next month, ahead of the United Nations General Assembly Special Session on Drugs (UNGASS), two EU agencies — the European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA) and Europol — will release their latest state-of-the-art report on the EU drug market, providing a detailed analysis of this important policy-relevant field.

The 2016 EU Drug Markets Report — In-depth Analysis will be launched at a press conference in Brussels on 5 April by Dimitris Avramopoulos, European Commissioner for Migration, Home Affairs and Citizenship. The Commissioner will be joined by EMCDDA Director Alexis Goosdeel and Europol Director Rob Wainwright.

I've checked your access to the shared space. In principle you have all the necessary access to the Cost Group website using your email address Claudia.Costa-Storti@emcdda.europa.eu

I invite you to, please, reset your password using this link

<http://www.seagma.coe.int/seagma/dsddostart>

and then with the new password to connect to the website itself

In case the troubles persist, my colleague Anastasiia will try to do her best to help you.

Best regards,

Dear Sanja,

I have commented this full paper. To be honest, I think that this paper still needs intensive editorial work. If there is no time for adding all references to national estimates (which can be seen at the EMCDDA link <http://www.emcdda.europa.eu/topics/drug-related-public-expenditure>), at least to include reference to the latest EMCDDA publications which you may find in the same link. I have tried to do this last point in a summarized way.

I have tried to comment and make suggestions to the text, alerting for eventual multiplication of the same descriptions, include info which I though could be missing, etc. But I have not checked that all references to national estimates were added.

I hope it helps

Kind regards

Cláudia

Dear all,

Please find in attachment first draft of the paper for the chapter of Public expenditure. In draft are incorporated the parts that are done by Sergey, Fatima, Laura and me.

Dear Elena, would you be so kind and upload it on Working Space or send by mail to members of the Expert group.

There are probably going to be overlapping in some parts, but at this stage I will not adjust, correct or remove text by myself.

I am proposing that we use this draft as paper for discussion on the meeting in January. Till then we can all read the document, make notes and suggestion for correction/revision and discuss about it at the meeting.

Depending on the feedback that will arise from the discussion, we will then make revision/correction of the document.

Dear all,

Not long to the Paris meeting! Please find enclosed a first draft of Chapter 1, our report's introductory part. Based on what we agreed on in Jerusalem I didn't plan to write this, but when I started on what we did agree on – the introduction to Chapter 3 - I realized that it was difficult to write that without having some understanding of what the contents of Chapter 1 might be. Therefore, I have written this draft and hope it can serve as a starting point for our discussions on the chapters. As you will see, this is not a full draft and text is still missing also in the paragraphs I have started on. Please read and comment. Already in November Sanja sent you a draft of Chapter 2 and Pavel will send you one on Chapter 3 before the meeting. All three will be presented and discussed at the meeting.

See you soon!

In conclusion, limited and unacceptable access to essential medicines are (also) a consequence of the control aspect that we should not neglect. The level of control measures is also a matter for public expenditures. I have left one track changed suggestion to ensure this in Anne Lines document and please excuse all my words.

Kind regards

Emne: A new version on the Draft Message to PC

Dear all,

Please find enclosed a new draft of the "Message to PCs". I have received several comments and suggestions (thank you!) and have tried to include as many as I could. As I see it, our main message here is to raise the PCs's awareness of unintended consequences/costs to keep that in mind for the UNGASS 2016 meeting and beyond.

Thanks again to Yossi and his colleagues for hosting the previous meeting – a great experience!

Anne Line

Dear all,

I am not quite sure whether you are inviting or comments or to take note. If any comments are welcomed, I have one suggestion. Reminding that; The three major international drug control treaties are mutually supportive and complementary. An important purpose of the first two treaties is to codify internationally applicable control measures in order to ensure the availability of narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances for medical and scientific purposes, and to prevent their diversion into illicit channels. They also include general provisions on trafficking and drug abuse.

On the other hand; In all too many countries, access to controlled essential medicines, is low or non-existent. The WHO has estimated that a staggering 5.6 billion people have no or low access.

! 92% of the world morphine is consumed by 17% of the world's population, North America, Oceania & Western Europe;

! In nearly 90% of the countries in the African region consumption of opioid analgesics is lower than 100 DDD per million inhabitants per day, and nearly half of the countries in the region have levels below 5 DDD – the adequate consumption is of 200 DDD

! An estimated 5,6 billion people in the world live in countries with low levels of, or non-existent access to opioid analgesics for treatment of moderate to severe pain; (80% of the world population)

Possible barriers to access to controlled medicines according to Dr. Gilles Forte – Coordinator, Policy, Access and Use Essential medicines and Health Products are among others;

! Attitudes

- Fear for abuse and dependence
- Fear for diversion and sanctions

! Regulations

- Limited prescription duration; special prescription forms
- Limitation of dispensing outlets; limitation of prescribing
- Prohibition/Restrictions on exports and imports- special licences needed

Dear Claudia and Peyman,

Please find attached the documents that were sent to the expert group before the 2nd meeting. I draw your attention to the Draft message to the Permanent Correspondents. If you have any comments, suggestions, could you please send them to Anne-Line by next Monday if possible.

As for the meeting itself, it was very interesting. I will put all the PP presentations on the shared webspace and of course send you the report as soon as it is ready.

Kind regards
Elena

Dear all,

I would like to bring to your attention some of the literature that was not included in the draft report at this phase, as it can be used in other sections not currently developed in the report (i.e. methodology, comparability among EU drug control measures) or in case of full report in the Expenditure Chapter.

In any case a particular paper, I believe it should be thoroughly analysed and examined for both reasons, its methodological soundness and innovation in the field and it can play a decisive role in the background literature and methodology section in our study. The paper I refer to is from our colleagues Goncalvesa, Lourenco and Nogueira da Silva from Portugal with the title 'A social cost perspective in the wake of the Portuguese strategy for the fight against drugs, (see attachment). As well as the excellent work of Claudia and her colleagues from EMCDDA 'Estimating public expenditure on drug-law offenders in Europe' (also attached).

I would suggest (although I have uploaded on the share space) to distribute this paper to all members of the group as it will facilitate the discussion regarding the drug policy expenditures in our meeting.

Looking forward to meet you there.

Kind regards,

Fivos

Def: $f(x) = \log_2(x^2 - 1)$ 求 $f(x)$ 的定义域和值域
 解: $\log_2(x^2 - 1) \geq 0 \Rightarrow x^2 - 1 \geq 1 \Rightarrow x^2 \geq 2 \Rightarrow x \leq -\sqrt{2}$ 或 $x \geq \sqrt{2}$
 所以 $f(x)$ 的定义域为 $(-\infty, -\sqrt{2}] \cup [\sqrt{2}, +\infty)$
 又 $f(x) = \log_2(x^2 - 1) \geq 0$ 所以 $f(x)$ 的值域为 $[0, +\infty)$
