Rec1			-1. The financial crisis in 2007 and 2008
(new)			exposed important shortcomings in financial supervision, both in particular cases and in relation to the financial system as a whole. Nationally based supervisory models have lagged behind financial globalisation and the integrated and interconnected reality of European financial markets, in which many financial institutions operate across borders. The crisis exposed shortcomings in the areas of cooperation, coordination, consistent application of Union law and trust between national competent authorities.
Rec1a			(-1a) In a number of resolutions adopted
(new)			before and during the financial crisis, the European Parliament called for a move towards more integrated European supervision, in order to ensure a truly level playing field for all actors at Union level, and for such supervision to reflect the increasing integration of financial markets in the Union (in particular, in Rec1c (new)			recommended that a European System of Financial Supervision (ESFS) be created, comprising three European supervisory authorities – one for each of the banking, the securities and the insurance and occupational pensions sectors – and a European Systemic Risk Council. (-1c) Financial stability is a prerequisite if the real economy is to provide jobs, credit and growth. The financial crisis has revealed serious shortcomings in financial supervision, which has failed to anticipate adverse macro-prudential developments or to prevent the accumulation of excessive risks within the financial system.

Rec. 1	(1) On 23 September 2009, the Commission adopted proposals for three Regulations establishing the European System of Financial Supervisors including the creation of the three European Supervisory Authorities (ESA).	(1) On 23 September 2009, the Commission adopted proposals for three Regulations establishing the European System of Financial Supervisors including the creation of the three European Supervisory Authorities (ESA).	(1) On 24 November 2010, the European Parliament and the Council adopted three Regulations establishing the European Supervisory Authority (European Insurance and Occupational Pensions Authority) (EIOPA), the European Supervisory Authority (European Banking Authority) (EBA) and the European Supervisory Authority (European Securities and Markets Authority) (ESMA) (collectively referred to as the European Supervisory Authorities (ESAs), which are part of the European System of Financial Supervision.
Rec. 1a (new)			(1a) In its conclusions following its meeting of 18 and 19 June 2009, the European Council recommended that a European System of Financial Supervisors, comprising three new ESAs, be established. It also

Rec. [15a] Supervisory knowledge of the assets held by insurance and reinsurance undertakings is an important tool with respect to macroeconomic surveillance. A full list of an undertaking's assets can be essential for supervisory authorities to assess financial risks properly, and in particular for insurance and reinsurance undertakings that are significant in terms of their size, internal organisation, and the nature, scale and complexity of risks inherent to their business. Supervisory authorities should therefore be able to require insurance and reinsurance undertakings to submit a full list of assets on an item-by-item basis when such information is necessary for them to effectively undertake their supervisory role. Extrapolation EIOPA's determination of the rates of the risk-free interest rate term structure shall make use of and be consistent with information derived from relevant financial instruments. This shall take into account relevant financial instruments of those maturities where the markets for those financial instruments as well as for bonds can be considered as deep, liquid and transparent. For maturities where the markets for the relevant financial instruments as well as for bonds cannot be considered as deep, liquid and transparent anymore, the risk-free interest rate term structure shall be extrapolated.
For each currency, the extrapolated part of the basic risk-free interest rate term structure shall be based on forward rates converging smoothly from one or a set of interest rates in relation to the longest maturities for which the relevant financial instruments and the bonds in that currency can be observed in a deep and liquid market to an ultimate forward rate.
The extrapolated part of the basic risk- free interest rate term structure shall converge in such a way to the ultimate forward rate that for maturities 10 years past the longest maturities referred to in the second paragraph the extrapolated forward rates do not differ more than
