"G20 Natural Gas Day"
29th June 2016, Beijing, China

Save the date to participate as a Delegate

Dear Mr Arias Cañete

The Chinese G20 presidency has embraced the need to facilitate an international energy dialogue, to contribute to global energy governance and create an environment for discussion and advancement of the COP21 commitments. For that purpose, the G20 Presidency will hold an Energy Ministerial Meeting that will endorse a final Energy Communiqué, which will be included in the 2016 G20 Leader's Declaration.

Consistent with the above, the National Energy Administration (NEA) (the G20 Chinese Presidency) and the International Gas Union (IGU) will jointly host a G20 Natural Gas Day on June 29th, on the first day of the two-day G20 Energy Ministerial Meeting.

This event will provide an opportunity for discussion on the role of natural gas in the future energy mix. We are obviously hopeful that a strong case can be made that with current very positive supply outlook that natural gas is an economic, secure and clean energy which can and should be a facilitator and catalyst towards sustainable development and the improvement of the quality of life around the world.

We have invited global leaders from the industry and intergovernmental organizations and governments to attend and participate in this event. In addition, the official G20 delegations will also have the opportunity to attend. The number of delegates, on a by invitation basis, will be about 300 participants. Beijing Gas Group (BGG), together with China Gas Society and China Gas Association, is in charge of the organization work of this Gas Day.

The G20 - Natural Gas Day will be hosted at the Beijing Yanqi Lake International Conference Center.

Your participation would be much appreciated, and we hope that you are able to accept the invitation.

If you need further information please contact [REDACTED], IGU [REDACTED] ([\[REDACTED\]@statoil.com](mailto:[REDACTED]@statoil.com)).

You will receive a formal invitation and practical information from the organization team regarding the event in due course.

We are looking forward to seeing you in Beijing.

Yours sincerely,
