Subject: RE: TCMV agenda of next week

Dear Mr Jonnaert,

I am fully aware of the issues that you have raised in your email.

There will be a correcting act addressing general technical errors and the introduction of the new evaporative emissions test dates in the new WLTP Regulation, which are uncontroversial and will be further discussed with Member States in TCMV on 3/10.

Regarding the RDE step 1 dates interfering with WLTP application dates I can inform you that ACEA concerns and a corresponding draft text of my services have received wide support from Member States at the last TCMV. We have received some editorial comments from Member States and are working towards a final draft with our Legal Service. It needs to be seen whether this element can also be added to the correcting act from a procedural perspective or must be handled in a separate legal act.

Given all administrative constraints, such as the need for public consultation, a vote in TCMV on the correcting act and the RDE-WLTP application date issue is envisaged for December.

Regards,
