

Decarbonizing the European economy starts with major investment into renewable energy, which will allow for an accelerated electrification if prices remain on a competitive level. The EU must support this transition by acknowledging solar as a strategic value chain under the IPCEI, coupled with targeted OPEX and CAPEX instruments for industrial electrification (Source: Wacker 2020).

