Dear Ms. Tomczak,

Regrettably, we are obliged to cancel the meeting you had accepted with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] on 23 November, as they have had to cancel their trip to Brussels. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause.

We would however like to propose a meeting with [REDACTED] and his team, who will be in Brussels on 7 November. The goal would be to discuss the direction of EU energy policy-making, the challenges and opportunities of the current crisis, and how the crisis is impacting the EU's political priorities, as well as any other topic you would like to touch upon.

Please let us know if you would be available to meet Equinor's strategy team on 7 of November at a time that suits you best.

Looking forward to hearing from you,

Equinor EU Affairs Office

Subject: Request for meeting with Equinor [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Dear Ms. Nelen,

I am writing to know if you would be available for a meeting with Equinor [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] and [REDACTED] on 23 November in the afternoon to discuss the direction of EU energy policy-making, the challenges and opportunities that the current crisis and resulting changing policies can bring to the energy transition, and how the crisis is impacting the EU's political priorities, as well as any other topic you would like to touch upon.

Equinor, formerly Statoil, is a broad energy company committed to climate neutrality by 2050, and today the largest supplier of gas to Europe, ensuring the continent has a flexible and reliable supply of energy.

Being at the forefront of the EU's response to the crisis and having a first-hand understanding of the political challenges ahead, our executives would be most interested in hearing your views.

Looking forward to hearing from you,
