Dear Ms Barbiroglio,

Regarding your questions with regards to promotion of agricultural products the answers are as follows:

1) How much money the UK government has sent annually to the European Union to fund research. I would like a breakdown of the data for the last 10 years.

Not applicable, promotion of agricultural products does not concern research.

2) The amount of money the UK government has been providing to the European Union for the Promotion of agricultural products since this programme begun.

Not applicable.

3) The amount of money the UK institutions have been receiving from the European Union through the Promotion of agricultural products.

Please note that the beneficiaries of the promotion of agricultural products policy are not UK institutions but agricultural organisations. The total amount of support allocated to these organisations, based in the UK, in the past 10 years is 18,382,590.79 EUR.
