Subject: Mothers rights.

How can it be said that all European citizens have the same rights.

Forced adoption policies do not exist in the majority of European Countries.

However here in the UK Social Services select naive young mothers & take their babies away based purely

On speculation. Where is our daughters Human rights to have a family of her own , as a first time mother since the birth of her baby she has been incarcerated , psychologically tortured, bullied, all at the say so of Social Services.

She does not drink , take drugs , her only crime is that she suffers mild OCD and anxiety.

Now after being incarcerated and allowed 2 months bonding with her daughter social services want to take her baby into care & throw her on the scrap heap as a discarded piece of unwanted waste. Furthermore here in the UK only one percent of babies who are placed in care are allowed to return to immediate family members such as Grandparents etc.

So tell me how all European citizens have the same Human Rights , our daughter has not committed any crime , has no history , does not drink or take drugs , has a loving family to support her , yet still they want her baby. Human trafficking exists legally here in the United Kingdom by taking babies for forced adoption. Once this president has been set , these young mothers are then sentenced to a life of purgatory with no family of their own, as if they become pregnant again , this baby is then removed at birth at the hospital.

An angry Grandfather
