Dear [REDACTED]

Many thanks for your quick reply and clarification of your forthcoming commitments.

Given your diary is still uncertain at the moment, and with your permission, I will contact you again in the next couple of weeks to see if we can find a suitable time for a meeting to take place.

Best wishes,

[REDACTED]

Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for your mail.

I will not be in Brussels on 2 March, I am afraid, as I will be travelling elsewhere that week (I did decline a speaking engagement for this reason, assuming we are talking about the same event).

Therefore, we would need to find another date. My visits to Brussels over the next couple of months are still rather open, so I cannot immediately suggest any alternative date either, I am afraid.

Best regards,

[REDACTED]

Dear [redacted]

Further to a conversation with your assistant last week, I am contacting you on behalf of [redacted], to request a meeting in Brussels to discuss the company's developing work in the field of artificial intelligence. [redacted] would very much appreciate the opportunity to introduce the Facebook team to you, and in a short meeting discuss the company's position and role in the interdisciplinary conversation on the impact of AI on society, particularly as it relates to ethics and economics.

I understand that you will be visiting Brussels for a speaking engagement on Friday 2 March, and would like to request if you have some availability to meet on that particular day?

Should you require any additional information at this stage, please do not hesitate to let me know.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes,

[redacted]
