EDITORIAL

Les septièmes élections du Parlement européen au suffrage universel direct se sont déroulées du 4 au 7 juin 2009 dans les 27 Etats membres de l'Union Européenne.

Ce numéro de notre Review est exclusivement consacré aux résultats de ce scrutin ainsi qu'à l'historique de l'élection directe du Parlement européen dont on a fêté les 30 ans.

Un certain nombre d'éléments constitutifs de cette publication proviennent de l'édition du mois de mai qui a précédée le scrutin.

I- Evolution de la composition du Parlement européen depuis 1979

Les premiers tableaux sont consacrés à la composition du PE au 20 juillet 2009. Au fil des traités et des adhésions, le Parlement européen est passé de 410 députés, en juillet 1979, à 736 aujourd'hui. Il en comptera 754 après l'entrée en vigueur du Traité de Lisbonne et jusqu'en 2014 où son nombre, en dehors de tout élargissement éventuel, sera fixé à 751.

Une deuxième série de tableaux met en relief l'évolution des groupes politiques. Pour chaque législature, deux tableaux sont mis à la disposition du lecteur : session constitutive et Parlement sortant au printemps précédent le scrutin. Une exception est faite pour la législature 2004-2009 avec un troisième tableau intégrant les nouveaux Députés bulgares et roumains.

Une troisième série illustre l'évolution de la répartition des genres depuis 1979. Pour cette nouvelle législature, le pourcentage des parlementaires femmes s'élève à 35% (16,5% en 1979) pour 24% dans les parlements nationaux.

Le dernier tableau de cette partie montre que le nombre de parlementaires réélus s'élève à 49,59% .

EDITORIAL

The seventh European Parliament elections by universal suffrage were held between 4 and 7 June 2009 in the 27 European Union Member States.

This edition of our Review examines the results of this ballot with reference to the historical data on the 30 years of direct European Parliament elections.

Certain components of this publication are taken from the May edition which preceded the election.

I- Evolution of the composition of the European Parliament since 1979

The first series of tables detail the composition of the EP on 20 July 2009. Due to the various treaties and accessions, the European Parliament has increased from 410 members in July 1979 to 736 today. When the Treaty of Lisbon enters into force it will be composed of 754 members. This number will be maintained until 2014 when, excluding further enlargement, it will remain fixed at 751.

The second series of tables illustrate the evolution of the political groups. Each legislature is presented by two tables: the constitutive session and the outgoing Parliament in May before the elections. An exception has been made for the 2004-2009 legislature with the insertion of a third table integrating the new Bulgarian and Romanian MEPs.

A third series demonstrates the gender distribution of MEPs in the parliament since 1979. For the current legislature, the percentage of female MEPs is 35% (16,5% in 1979) compared to 24% in the national parliaments.

The last table in this section shows that the number of MEPs re-elected has increased to 49.59% .

II- Nombre de partis nationaux au Parlement européen

Le Parlement européen compte à l'heure actuelle 170 partis politiques nationaux pour 185 dans le Parlement sortant. Cette différence vient notamment du changement de scrutin en Italie et de la diminution de l'offre politique en Pologne.

III- Taux de participation

Comme pour les précédentes éditions, nous avons choisi de présenter les pourcentages avec deux décimales après avoir observé des différences parfois importantes, pour un même Etat membre, entre les publications traitant de cette question. Pour quelles raisons? Tout d'abord parce que, selon les sources, ce sont les résultats du jour même, ceux du lendemain ou des jours qui suivent le scrutin qui sont pris en considération, plus rarement les résultats définitifs officiels. Quand ils existent, ces derniers peuvent prendre plusieurs semaines avant d'être publiés. Ensuite, parce qu'arrondir vers le haut ou vers le bas un même résultat est une pratique assez fréquente qui peut donner deux visions contradictoires du résultat.

Afin de faciliter la lecture des tableaux globaux et par pays, nous consacrons une page d'introduction de cette partie III à quelques remarques explicatives relatives aux modes de scrutin et aux méthodes de calcul du taux de participation dans les 27 Etats membres.

Le lecteur prendra connaissance de plusieurs types de tableaux :

Tableau global 2009 : plus de 166 millions d'Européens sont allés voter. Evolution de la participation: elle est en baisse de 2,5 point à l'échelle européenne mais avec de forts contrastes allant de +17 points à -27 points selon les pays.

Répartition du vote par âge et genre: 44 % pour les hommes, 42 % pour les femmes qui ont toutefois plus voté que les hommes dans 8 pays.

II- Number of national parties in the European Parliament

The European Parliament is currently composed of 170 national political parties compared to the outgoing parliament which was composed of 185. This difference derives from a change of the election system in Italy and the reduced political choice in Poland.

III- Turnout

As in previous editions, we have chosen to present the percentages with two decimal places after detecting, on occasion, some important differences for the same Member State between different sources published on this matter. Why? Firstly, these are rarely official results but, depending on the source, the results which are published on the day of the elections, the day after the elections or in the days following the elections. The official results, if they already exist, may take several weeks before being published. Secondly, the rounding up or down of the same result is a fairly common practice which could give two contradictory visions of the same result.

In order to facilitate an examination of the overall tables and by country, the reader will find in section III an introductory note with some explanatory remarks regarding the electoral rules and methods of calculating the turnout in the 27 Member States.

This section is composed of several tables:

Overall table for 2009: More than 166 million Europeans voted. Development in the participation: It is down 2,5 points at the European level but with strong differences between the Member States ranging from +17 points to -27 points.

Participation by age and gender: 44% for men, 42% for women who, nevertheless, voted more than men in 8 countries.

Vote des 18-24 ans: 29 % contre 43 % au niveau de l'UE avec des différences par rapport à la participation nationale allant de -28 à +2.

Evolution de la participation au niveau de l'UE et de chaque Etat membre entre chaque scrutin depuis 1979.

Comparatif entre les taux de participation aux deux dernières élections nationales et européennes.

IV- Résultats comparatifs par pays

Pour chaque Etat membre de l'UE, le lecteur trouvera sept tableaux :

1. Composition du Parlement européen: résultats comparatifs 2004/2007 avec 2009 :

Pour les élections précédentes: résultats par parti, pourcentage de voix obtenues et appartenance aux groupes politiques; situation au 15 mai 2009.

Pour les élections 2009, résultats par parti, nombre de voix obtenues, pourcentage et appartenance aux groupes politiques.

Cette mise en perspective permet de mieux appréhender l'évolution de l'offre politique européenne entre les deux scrutins.

2. Partis nationaux représentés au Parlement :

Les noms des partis nationaux figurent exclusivement dans leur(s) langue(s) officielle(s), à l'exception de la Bulgarie, de la Grèce et de Chypre pour lesquels nous avons rajouté une version anglaise.

Le tableau reprend également le nom de la liste aux élections européennes, sur laquelle figure les partis ainsi que leur appartenance à un groupe politique.

The 18-24 year old vote: 29% against 43% at the EU level with differences in the participation at the national level ranging from -28 to +2.

Evolution in participation at the EU level and in each Member State for every election since 1979.

A comparison of the turnout in the last two national and European elections.

IV- Comparative results by country

For each EU Member State, the reader will find seven tables:

1. Composition of the European Parliament: Comparing 2004/2007 with 2009 results:

For the previous elections: results by party, percentage of votes obtained and the composition of the political groups, as of 15 May 2009.

For the 2009 elections: results by party, number of votes obtained, percentage and composition of the political groups.

This puts into perspective a better understanding of the evolution of the political options presented to the voters between the two elections.

2. National parties represented in the parliament:

The names of the national parties feature exclusively in their official language(s), with the exception of Bulgaria, Greece, and Cyprus where an English version has been added.

The name of the European elections list on which the party appeared is also indicated in the table, together with its adherence to a political group.

3. Les Membres du PE élus en juin 2009 par groupe politique :

Pour chaque élu(e) le tableau reprend le nom de la liste sur laquelle il/elle a concouru, son genre, s'il/elle était ou non parlementaire sortant, son parti politique national et son groupe politique au PE. Les remplacements déjà intervenus depuis le scrutin sont également indiqués.

4. Offre politique globale :

Ce tableau reprend les scores obtenus par toutes les listes candidates au scrutin de juin 2009.

5. Noms des listes nationales qui ont concouru aux Elections européennes 2009 :

Il est divisé entre partis représentés et partis non représentés au PE et indique, pour les premiers, leur appartenance aux groupes politiques du Parlement et pour tous leur appartenance éventuelle à un parti politique européen.

6. Résultats des deux dernières élections nationales et des européennes 2009 :

Ce tableau permet de saisir l'évolution de la situation politique dans les Etats membres.

7. Les sources d'information utilisées aux niveaux européen et national :

Remarque complémentaire

Le lecteur est invité à noter que, dans un souci de transparence et de fiabilité, les pourcentages de voix obtenues pour chaque liste électorale sont précisés avec deux décimales : ces chiffres sont ceux des données officielles publiés par les autorités compétentes des Etats membres.

Précisés à deux décimales, ces pourcentages permettent une appréciation précise de la proportion des voix obtenues. Il n'en demeure pas moins que même avec ces deux chiffres significatifs, les résultats restent toujours des arrondis.

3. The MEPs elected in June 2009 by political group:

For each elected member the table gives the name of the list on which he/she had featured, their gender, if he/she was a member of the outgoing parliament and their political group in the EP. The replacements that have already taken place since the election are also indicated.

4. Total political choice for the voters:

This table provides the scores attained by all the candidate lists in the June 2009 election.

5. The names of the national lists which participated in the 2009 European elections.

This is divided into parties represented and parties not represented in the EP. For the represented parties, their adherence to the Parliament's political groups is indicated and for all parties their adherence to a European political party.

6. Results of the last two national elections and the 2009 European elections:

This table allows for an understanding of the developing political situation in the Member States.

7. The information sources used at the European and national levels:

Additional note

Please note that, for the sake of transparency and reliability, the percentages of votes obtained by each electoral list are rounded to two decimal places: these are the numbers that are officially published by the Member States' authorities.

These percentages, rounded to two decimal places, project a precise indication of the proportion of votes obtained. Nevertheless, even at two decimals these results remain roundings.

Par conséquent, lorsque l'on totalise les pourcentages de voix obtenues par l'ensemble des listes présentées dans un pays, il est donc normal que le total n'atteigne pas exactement les 100,00%, et cela dans une variation de plus ou moins un point de pourcentage.

Steffen Schneider	02/2832852
Nives Zun	02/2844399
Nathalie Lefèvre	02/2841226
Jowita Wypych	02/2840655

As a result, when the percentages of votes obtained by all the lists in one country are accumulated, it is normal that the total does not add up exactly to 100,00%, the possible variation being plus or minus one percentage point.

** When the Treaty of Lisbon enters into force the EP will be composed of 754 members. This number will be maintained until 2014 when, excluding further enlargement, it will remain fixed at 751. Altogether, 18 new MEPs from 12 Member States will take their seats in Parliament after the new Treaty enters into force and a legal text confirming the addition of 18 MEPs has been ratified by all Member States. Until then, the MEPs-designate will not enjoy voting rights but can receive an observer status, a possibility now added to the Parliament Rules of Procedure by the EP Constitutional Affairs Committee.

Electoral procedures in the Member States

EXPLANATORY REMARKS

With the help of our information offices and after research conducted by our Unit at competent authorities on this subject in each Member State, we have created global tables summing up the political situation and the results of the elections and which the reader will find attached.

Given the various specificities in the counting of ballots, several differences must be taken into consideration:

- 18 countries employ the preferential voting systems in various forms: Belgium, Bulgaria, Czech Republic, Cyprus, Denmark, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg (the only country where each voter has as many votes as there are deputies to elect i.e. 6), Malta, the Netherlands, Austria, Slovenia, Slovakia, Finland, Sweden, Northern Ireland (United Kingdom).
- In all EU Member States, the turnout is calculated by dividing the number of voters by the number of registered voters. In the United Kingdom, turnout is usually calculated by dividing the number of recorded votes by the number of registered voters. Before the 2004 elections, the number of voters in the UK has not been counted systematically. This can be explained by the fact that the UK Electoral Commission was set up in 2001. In the interest of consistency, it is the turnout calculated by dividing the number of voters by the number of registered voters (34,70%) that is used in this Review and not the one calculated by dividing the number of recorded votes by the number of registered voters (34,47%).

Procédures électORALES dans les Etats membre

REMARQUES EXPLICATIVES

Avec l'aide des Bureaux d'information du Parlement européen et après des recherches conduites par notre Unité auprès des autorités compétentes en la matière au sein de chaque Etat membre, nous avons créés des tableaux globaux résumant la situation politique et les résultats des élections que le lecteur pourra trouver à la suite.

Etant donné les exceptions existantes dans le comptage des bulletins de vote, plusieurs particularités doivent être prises en compte:

- 18 pays utilisent le système du vote préférentiel dans des variantes différentes : Belgique, Bulgarie, République tchèque, Chypre, Danemark, Irlande, Italie, Lettonie, Lituanie, Luxembourg (seul pays où chaque électeur dispose d'autant de voix que de députés à élire, i.e. 6), Malte, Pays-Bas, Autriche, Slovénie, Slovaquie, Finlande, Suède, Irlande du Nord (au Royaume-Uni).
- Dans tous les Etats membres, le taux de participation est calculé en divisant le nombre de votants par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits. Au Royaume-Uni le taux de participation est communément calculé en divisant le nombre de suffrages exprimés par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits. Avant les élections de 2004, le nombre de votants au RU n'a pas été systématiquement décompté. Ceci s'explique par le fait que la Commission électorale RU a été créée en 2001. Pour une raison de cohérence interne de la Revue, c'est le taux de participation calculé en divisant le nombre de votants par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits qui est utilisé (34,70%) et pas celui obtenu en divisant le nombre de suffrages exprimés par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits (34,47%).

Additional remarks:

- Finland: The Finnish authorities normally use domestic turnout at 40.30% (votes cast in Finland) as a reference, instead of the total turnout at 38.60% (votes cast in Finland and by Finns living abroad). The media and research in Finland uses domestic figure, too. In the interest of consistency, it is the total turnout that is used in the Review.
- Czech Republic: turnout is calculated by dividing the number of official envelopes cast (regardless of what is inside) by the number of registered voters.
- Czech Republic, Spain, Latvia, Portugal: both blank and spoilt votes are included in the 100% basis used to calculate the percent share obtained by each party.
- Ireland: candidates who receive a number of votes equal to or greater than a decided quota are elected and surplus votes are then transferred proportionately to remaining candidates according to their rank-order indicated by the voter (STV: Single Transferable Vote).
- Latvia, Slovenia: turnout is calculated on the base of both voters who have come to polling stations and absentee voters who have received ballot papers.

Please also note that in Greece official results of the 2009 European elections were not published yet.

Remarques complémentaires :

- Finlande: Les autorités finnoises utilisent communément le taux de participation domestique à 40,30% (votes émis en Finlande) comme référence, et non pas le taux de participation global à 38,60% (votes émis en Finlande et par les Finlandais résidant à l'étranger votant pour une liste finnoise). Les médias et le monde universitaire finnois utilisent aussi le chiffre du taux de participation domestique. Pour une raison de cohérence interne de la Revue, c'est le taux de participation global qui est utilisé.
- République tchèque : le taux de participation est calculé en divisant le nombre d'enveloppes officielles insérées dans les urnes (quelque soit leur contenu) par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits.
- République tchèque, Espagne, Lettonie, Portugal : les bulletins blancs et nuls sont tous deux inclus dans la base des 100% utilisée pour calculer le pourcentage de voix reçues par partis.
- Irlande : les candidats ayant reçu un nombre de voix égales ou supérieures à un certain quota sont élus et le surplus des voix est transféré aux candidats suivants de façon proportionnelle en fonction des préférences indiquées par les électeurs (VUT : Vote Unique Transférable).
- Lettonie, Slovénie : le taux de participation est calculé sur la base des votants qui se sont rendus aux urnes et des électeurs absents qui ont reçus un bulletin de vote.

Merci de prendre aussi en compte qu'en Grèce les chiffres officiels des élections européennes de 2009 ne sont pas encore publiés.

NB:

- Data based on EB71.3 Post-electoral survey
- Please note these shares do not correspond to the number of potential voters but to the population having reached voting age. As a matter of fact, data about voters depends on national election procedures which vary by country.

* Member states with obligatory vote.

NB: Please refer to the Explanatory Remarks at the beginning of this chapter

Le taux de participation se calcule en divisant le nombre de votants par le nombre d'électeurs inscrits.

* Pour 2004, ce sont les votants des 25 Etats membres qui ont été pris en compte. Lors des élections précédentes, les données "votants" n'étant pas disponibles pour le Royaume-Uni, le total des votants est calculé en additionnant le nombre de votants de tous les Etats membres, à l'exception du Royaume-Uni.

The turnout is calculated by dividing the number of voters by the number of registered voters.

* For the 2004 elections, only the ballots of 25 Member States are taken into account. For previous elections, the figure for "voters" was not available for the United Kingdom and so the number of voters in the EU is calculated by adding the number of voters from all the Member States with the exception of the United Kingdom.

NB 1: Note that Ireland is divided into four constituencies and that the percentages of votes per party in the table refer to national first preference votes only. Under the Irish preferential voting system (the Single Transferable Vote (STV) in multi-member constituencies) the number of seats won per party in each constituency depends partly on the first preference votes and partly on lower-order preferences. Candidates who receive a number of votes equal to or greater than the "quota" are elected and their surplus votes are transferred according to the next preference expressed by the voter. When no surplus votes remain to be distributed, the lowest candidate is eliminated and his/her votes are transferred according to the next preferences, and so on until all the seats are filled.
