Subject: Request for a short meeting on Single-Use Plastics

Dear Ms Braun,

I am reaching out as a follow-up to a meeting we had earlier this year with [REDACTED] Starbucks EMEA as I have a short question regarding the interpretation of the scope of the new European Commission proposal on Single-Use Plastics.

I tried to contact Mr Grzegorz Radziejewski, who was also at the meeting, but as he is out of office for the next two weeks, his cabinet recommended that I get in touch with you.

I was wondering whether you would be available to have a very short meeting/coffee with myself and a colleague of mine to briefly discuss this in the coming days. Anytime except tomorrow would work. We are of course available to come at a venue of your best convenience.

Thank you very much in advance,

Best regards,

[REDACTED]

Thank you for your mail and request from [REDACTED] to meet with Ms Helena Braun on 19 February 2018.

We could suggest a meeting any time as of 15h00 onwards.

Please let us know what time would suit [REDACTED] the most?

In order to smoothly organise the access to Berlaymont building, may I kindly ask you to complete the excel table in attachment with all required details for all the persons who will be coming to the meeting?

Also, would you be so kind to indicate the registration number of the entity in the Transparency register?

Thank you in advance and best regards,

Subject: Request for a meeting with [REDACTED] EMEA, at Starbucks Coffee Company

Dear Ms Braun,

I am contacting you on behalf of Starbucks Coffee Company to request a meeting for [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] EMEA. [REDACTED] will be in Brussels on 19th of February and would very much appreciate if you have the time for a short introductory meeting.

Starbucks has always been committed to being a responsible player, in particular as far as coffee sourcing is concerned. The cornerstone of this approach is Coffee and Farmer Equity (C.A.F.É. practices), a comprehensive coffee-buying program that ensures coffee quality while promoting social, economic and environmental standards, which was developed in collaboration with the NGO Conservation International more than a decade ago.

Today the company is close to reaching its target of 100% ethically sourced coffee, and is the founding partner of an initiative facilitated by Conservation International, the Sustainable Coffee Challenge -which together with more than 90 partners across the coffee sector including roasters, retailers, traders, governments, donor agencies and NGOs- is committed to make coffee the world's first sustainable agricultural product. Starbucks has also always been involved in helping farmers and their families in coffee growing countries through a number of Farmer Support Centers, Farmer Loans Programmes and individual initiatives empowering women in the local communities. Starbucks has also committed to donate a million coffee trees to farmers most impacted by climate change, and is partnering with the industry through the Sustainable Coffee Challenge to expand this initiative and commit to 1 billion trees.

In the light of the above and in the context of the EU's response to the UN Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and the crucial role that the private sector plays in their implementation, Mr Redfern would very much appreciate a short meeting with you on 19th of February to present you the work of Starbucks and explore ways of deepening the cooperation with the European Commission on sustainable development.

Thank you very much in advance for considering our request.

Kind regards,

[redacted] on behalf of Starbucks
