3.2 Summary of the project* (EN/FR/DE) (max 4000 characters)

Please describe: objective(s), activities, number and type of beneficiaries, expected results, output and deliverables.

This project's overall goal is to develop and implement a number of Educational Tools and resources for teachers and students in middle and high schools in 10 European countries in order to:

1. Secure that homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity are discussed and fought against in schools throughout Europe
2. Provide teachers of middle and high schools with necessary tools to identify and tackle homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in school contexts
3. Empower local LGBT NGOs and Ministries of Education to play an active role in fight against homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in schools

The Danish Institute for Human Rights (hereinafter DIHR) will together with 10 local NGOs in 10 European countries develop and implement a web based resource center on homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity for middle and high school teachers and children. The website will contain background information, best practice catalogue, reports and other relevant materials on homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in Europe. The information for the website will be tailor-made for each target group of this project: students of middle and high schools; teachers of middle and high schools and local LGBT NGOs. The project team will have in mind needs and wishes of each target group when tailor-making the information on the website. The website and its content will also be translated to the languages of participating countries.

Besides, DIHR will develop three Educational Tool Kits: One for Students; One for Teachers and One for NGOs. Each Tool Kit will provide its users with relevant and tailor-made information on homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity, as well as a number of useful tools on how to address these issues in each target groups' respective contexts. As a part of the project, DIHR will together with its local partners conduct a training seminar, during which school teachers from participating countries will be trained to use the Educational Tool Kit for Teachers and Children in their respective contexts. During the seminar, the teachers will develop their own training course or a theme day on homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity. Upon their arrival home, they will commit themselves to test their course or theme day at their own schools. Local partners will be responsible for monitoring and evaluating the testing. The feedback, collected during the testing workstream, will be used in order to adjust the Educational Tool Kits.

The final versions of Educational Tool Kits will be uploaded on the website.

The main deliverables of this project will be: the website in 10 European languages; 3 Educational Tool Kits for students, teachers and LGBT NGOs and the report on situation of homophobia, transphobia and discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in schools of the participating countries. The report will also include "lessons learned" and a list of recommendations, generated during this project. The applicant will also secure that this project's deliverables are properly disseminated and maintained, also after the end of project period.

Besides the participating countries, we believe that all EU countries will benefit from this project and its deliverables. The web based character of this project, together with the variety of languages, which its deliverables will be translated into and a sufficient dissemination strategy, will secure that as many stakeholders throughout Europe as possible, will get access to its outputs and products.

Please note that if you have to print the form (see relevant guide for applicants) it is only printed what is visible on the screen. Therefore - while a maximum of characters is allowed to type in - be careful with carriage returns and white spaces, in order to fit the summary also visibly on the page
