Dear Sophie,

Unfortunately the slot offered is no longer available in our EVP's agenda. Something unexpected came up today and being an inter-institutional commitment we are not able to move it to another date. Unfortunately all the morning is now taken by that new event.

I know that you said that the afternoon is not an option for you, but maybe you can consider the slot from 17:30 until 18:00 that same day?

We are really sorry for this last minute change but it was something out of our control.

Best regards

Dear ██████████,

Many thanks for your message, we are glad to accept your proposed timeslot at 11:30-12:00. After we spoke on the phone, President Von der Leyen's office managed to move their meeting to 11:00 so it works out nicely.

I will send you back the table with the required information shortly.

Kind regards,

Dear ██████████,

EVP Vestager asked me to reply to thank you and to reply on her behalf to the meeting request you submitted.

She gladly accepts to meet Mr Gelsinger on the 10/11 as you suggested. We managed to carve a slot in her agenda from 11.30 to 12.00. Thank you for letting us know if that suits your needs.

In order to grant access to the Berlaymont to Mr Gelsinger and his delegation I would need you to fill in and send me back the table attached.

Alternatively only name, surname and email address of the participants will do, but then they will have to upload their personal data individually on our accreditation system.

In case you are planning to reach the Berlaymont with a car I can grant you access to the esplanade but I would need the following information: car brand and type, color, plate number and driver name, surname and ID car number.

Do not hesitate to get back to me for any further information.

Best regards

Dear Mr. Piergiovanni,

I am writing to request a meeting for Pat Gelsinger, CEO of Intel Corporation, with Executive Vice-President Vestager. The EU continues to be a very important region and market for Intel and we would like to discuss our planned investments in Europe. Pat will travel to Brussels in the morning of Nov 10th and would appreciate a meeting with the Executive VP in person.

We look forward to your response.

Kind regards,
